

Q & A

THE BUCKET LIST

Singer-songwriter Imogen Heap loved cycling the Thames. By Holly Rubenstein

Lake Natron, Tanzania

⤴ Where have you learnt the most about yourself? Lake Natron in Tanzania, researching the sounds for a potential score. It made me realise that any sound can be musical. It sounds daft now, but before that trip I had never considered the sounds around me as a musical input. I had been limiting myself to traditional instruments.

Scenery in Switzerland

⤴ If you had to recommend one place to visit, where would it be? Beautiful Bern in Switzerland, where I often spend time. Go in the summer. Swim in the River Aare, there's great shopping, countless cute restaurants, experience the lively local music scene, see the view of Jungfrau mountain region from the courtyard of Parliament and say hi to the bears.

Imogen's favourite trip was taking in the Thames by bike

⤴ How about the best hotel you've stayed in? My favourite trip was actually when I was finishing up my second solo album and I took a bike ride from the source of the River Thames in Kemble to the Thames barrier, staying at local B&Bs along the way. Long before Air BnB, I'd always get great recommendations and have a good evening meal at a local pub.

⤴ What is your favourite city? I'm sorry, I know it's boring but it has to be London.

You just can't beat London

WHAT'S AT THE TOP OF YOUR BUCKET LIST? I WOULD LOVE TO SPEND SOME FAMILY TIME EXPLORING SOUTH AMERICA. CHILE WOULD BE OUR FIRST STOPPING OFF POINT.

Happy memories of Iceland

⤴ Where was your happiest holiday? I spent a few days in Iceland back in 2014 with my new man at the time. It was a very happy holiday because I brought home the best souvenir – I'd fallen pregnant with our daughter. We went back there last year as part of my European tour and swam with her in the geothermal pools and watched the Northern Lights together. So many happy memories.

When you need to unwind where do you escape to? My studio or simply a piano. Making music has always levelled me out. Otherwise, just a walk in nature, anywhere.

⤴ What destination most reminds you of childhood holidays? A big family holiday we went on for two weeks in the States. Racing up some sand dunes to catch the sunset near Salt Lake City and meeting Native American activist and artist Fortunate Eagle in Nevada. We stopped off to see his Roundhouse gallery in Fallon and it made a huge impact on the nine-year-old me.

Chile is on Imogen's bucket list

Imogen was chased by a moose in Alaska

⤴ Which performance location was the most memorable? Haines, Alaska when I was 19, in the Chilkat Center for Arts. This was my introduction to solar and wind power, seeing so many stars, eating freshly caught salmon and being chased by a moose! However, The Roundhouse in London holds a very special place in my heart as it's here that I've done some of my most ambitious concerts and technically had my biggest failures and successes. I'm really looking forward to finishing up my most ambitious tour to date there, wearing my MIMU gloves system (the world's most advanced wearable musical instrument).

Touring Alaska was an unforgettable experience

The Cotswolds is a family haven

⤴ Where do you keep going back to? We've recently found a perfect spot in the Cotswolds, which is close enough to London to be very reachable for a weekend. There are lakes and lots of fun activities for the daytime and cosy lodges for family evenings together.
